MOTION OF OPPOSITION

Plaintiff is a mentally impaired person with diagnosis of past history of psychiatric illness, depressive illness, panic attacks, and social personality disorder who is currently under psychiatric care and medication for treatment of an ongoing post traumatic stress syndrome, depression and anxiety from the police brutality and attempted murder upon Plaintiff by the above mentioned officers and further assaults and battery, torments and harassments by Massachusetts Correctional Officers.

Plaintiff is at a severe disadvantage without appointed counsel to afford Equal Protection to defend the claims brought before the Court. Due to the seriousness of the claims brought before the court Plaintiff invokes the 14th Amendment of the United States Constitution, section 1. and here-by states that he will not be equally protected without appointment of counsel. Respectfully submitted,
Donald P. Muller pro se
